THE ORIGIN OF MOSQUITOES.

The Red river Indians have a curious legend respecting the origin of mosquitoes. They say that once upon a time there was a famine, and the Indians could get no game. Hun-dreds had died from hunger, and desolation filled the country. All kinds of offerings were made to the Great Spirit without avail, until one day two hunters came upon a wolverine, a very rare, animal. Upon shooting the white wolverine, an old woman sprang out of the skin, and saying that she was a "Manito," promised to go and live with the Indians, promising them plenty of game as long as they treated her well and gave her the first choice of the game that was brought in. The two Indians assented to this and took the old woman home with them, which event was immediately succeeded by an abundance of game. When the sharpness of the famine has passed in the prosperity which the old woman had brought the tribes the Indians became dainty in their appetites, and complained of the manner in which the old woman took to herself the choice bits; and this feeling became warning that if they violated their promise a terrible calamity would come upon the Indians, they one day killed her as she was seizing her share of a reindeer which the hunter had brought in. Great consterna-tion immediately struck the witnesses of the deed, and the Indians, to es cape predicted calamity, bodily struck their texts and moved to a great dis-Time passed on without any oatastrophe occuring, and game becoming even more plentiful, the Indians began to laugh at their being deceaved by the old woman. Finally, a hunting party on a long chase of a reindeer, which had led them back to the place where the old woman had been killed, came upon her skeleton, and one of them, in derision, kicked the skull with his In an instant a small, spiral, vaporlike body arose from the eyes and ears of the body, which proved to be insects, that attacked the hunt to the river for protection. The skull continued to pour out its little stream, and the air became full of avenuers of the old woman's death. The hunters, on returning to camp, found the Indians suffering terribly from the plague, and ever since that time the Indians have been punished by the Mosquitoes for the r ness to their preserver, the Manito. A Framuno paper telle a most exproposal te celebrate, near Geneva, dozen the centenary of Voltaire. A certain Monaieur X began to rais funds, but before he secured enough he was struck dead. A second gentleman took up the work, and in a few days he also was carried a corpse to the cemetery. After a time the son of the occupant of the chateau took up the work, completed the collection and ordered a bust of the "great Godinsulter" from a sculptor, when he too passed away. His father, however, auxious to erect the bust as memorial to his son as well as Voltaire, in spite of the entresties of his friends, collected the towns people and marched a procession to the setted ground, set up the monu-ment and made a speech, when he, also, died in the presence of his followers. Since then, says the paper, the proprietor of the chateau has died -"the fifth finger of God!"

THE LATE JOHN CORNING.

John Corning, Assistant Superintendent of the Central Pacific Bailroul, who went to Los Angeles some weeks ago for the benefit of his health, died at the Sierra Madre Villa, San Gabriel, at 12:15 Sunday morning. His remains were embalmed and sent to San Francisco that morning.

Mr. Corning was a native of the State of New York, and at the time of his death was 52 years of age. His father was a clergyman, and brother of Erastus Corning, for many years President of the New York Central Tueson, Arizona. Railroad. At the age of 32 deceased began his railroad career, entering the employ of the Michigan Central in train service. After a few years' connection with that road he went into the service of the New York Central under his uncle Erastus, and in the course of time attained the position of Assistant General Superintendent, which he retained until about the year 1868, when he accepted a similar position on the Central Pacific, in which he has since remained. ONSUMERS ARE REFERRED TO the following extract from the report of the eminent public analysis: "This is a pure barbey and wheat sport remarkable in fragrant ethers, which impart a delicate aroma, at the same rey, which impart a delicate arome, at the same time greatly increasing its value as a diffusive attinuiant. The sold residue contains a large amount of fennin, derived from steining in our rasks, which hoparts to fine old whicky one of its valuable bidividual qualities. The amount of the residue proves the whisky to be free from the excessive coloring and swedning so generally need in adulterating, in fact, in two words it is the PUREST WHISKY, and will not only supply a public want now, that whiskies are so generally adulterated, but will be of the greatest value to the physician in those numerous cases where pure whiskies are too most useful of all medicines. Strictly for Cash'

Our business men, almost without cash business after the first of Janutions that it is almost an impossibil- tion. ity to collect money enough to pay the rent on their stores, and that their stock is constantly getting smaller, with no money to replenish. As a safeguard, therefore, they propose to sell for each only, preferring to do a lighter business getting coin for it, to doing a land office business and losing the profits in long accounts or total losses. Several notices of the proposed change already appear in the Journal. Let all interested prepare to pay up the outstanding indebtedness and start the new year with a clean slate.

Scatt Siddons,

in the Academy of Music last evening, as announced in yesterday's JOURNAL. A telegram was received here late Monday evening asking for the papers to make the announcement that she would give a select reading here on the evening following (Tuesday). No hall was specifled, and so those in whose hands the matter fell selected the Academy of Music as the most suitable place and so gave notice. Prof. Varney having that hall engaged for last night, of course Mrs. Siddons had to give way. We hope the lady will favor Reno with an entertainment.

Accidentally Shot.

The Enterprise says: "Last Sunday John Marchall, a ranchman whose ranch is seven miles below Reno, went | their capital stock. to Virginia City with a load of hay, which he sold and then went to Silver City to see some friends. While handling a pistol at the house of a friend the weapon was accidentally discharged, sending a bullet through his head and killing him instantly. An inquest has been held and a verdict in accordance with the above facts was found."

Suspended.

Last evening the editor and proprietor of the Record, Mr. S. F. Hoole, announced that the paper would suspend because of a lack of patronage, but announced a determination to canvass the county and if receiving sufficient assurances to thinks the Democracy of Washoe county ought to support a party
